

Leigh Nash

Venus

Together, we are a constellation, this bed
our night sky.

Pitted moons locked in
orbital conversation,
we excavate belly,
breast beneath milky
blankets –

ignore morning,
its copper
trap.